

the detection and analysis.

4. The broadcast receiver according to claim 3, wherein said station selection controlling part evaluates the reception status of the currently-receiving radio wave, and generates said station selection command so as to include the result of the evaluation.